

Alessandro Dario Lavia

alessandro.lavia@gmail.com

www.alessandrolavia.com

Professional Experience

Senior Analyst, Oliver Wyman, Data and Analytics, Milan

Oct 2026 –

Academic Experience

Postdoctoral Researcher, University of Turin

Jun 2024 – May 2026

- Conduct research in macroeconomics, banking and finance using econometric methods, statistical modelling and large datasets.
- Develop empirical analyses and collaborate on research projects in finance.

Visiting Scholar, Federal Reserve Bank of Boston

Jan 2024 – May 2024

- Contributed to research on banking, financial markets and macroeconomic policy.

Research Intern, Sveriges Riksbank

Oct 2023 – Dec 2023

- Conducted empirical research on financial markets and international finance.

Teaching Fellow / Teaching Assistant

Sep 2020 – May 2026

ESCP Business School, Boston College, University of Turin

- Taught economics courses and quantitative methods.
- Communicated technical concepts to students with different backgrounds.

Education

Ph.D. in Economics, Boston College

2020 – 2025

- Essays in Macroeconomics
- Advisors: P. Ireland, J. Nosal, R. Valchev, M. Boldrin

M.A. in Economics, Boston College

2020 – 2022

- Specialization in macroeconomics and international finance.

M.A. in Economics, Collegio Carlo Alberto

2019 – 2020

- Advanced training in economic theory, econometrics and quantitative methods.

B.Sc. & M.Sc. in Economics, University of Turin

2014 – 2019

Selected Research

- Environmental risk, production networks and borrowing costs.
- Import price pass-through.
- International equity flows under uncertainty.
- Bank risk-taking under secular stagnation.

Technical Skills

Programming: Python, R, MATLAB, Stata, SQL, $\text{\LaTeX}$

Methods: Econometrics, Statistical Modeling, Time Series Analysis, Panel Data Analysis

Data Analysis: Economic and Financial Data Analysis, Data Visualization

Languages: Italian (native), English (fluent), French (basic)

Other Activities

Contributor, Lavoce.info (2020–Present)

Economic Editor, Liberi Oltre Le Illusioni (2022–2025)